

ENCHANTED RIVER

by Meredith Kennedy

I want to take Enchanted River along its long and winding way, don't wait to call my name aloud, I cannot hear where I have gone.

I have to go, I have to follow, the river calls my heart to fly,
and if you call my name tomorrow,
I will have gone along its way.

And if I find its magic waters can soothe my heart and ease my pain, if you will call my name in sorrow, then I will find my home again.

I have to go, I have to follow,
the river calls my heart to fly,
and if you call my name tomorrow,
I will have gone along its way.

And if I know my heart is breaking, then I will never find my way so I will go before you call me, before you sweetly call my name.

And if you call my name tomorrow,
I will have gone along its way and if you find Enchanted River then you will know my name again.

I have to go, I have to follow,
the river calls my heart to fly,
and if you call my name tomorrow,
I will have gone along its way.
